

Project: Zine Workshops

Starting in Pride Month of 2024, three crafting workshops were held at Conwy Culture Centre, where members of the public could come and learn about the history of 'zines' (self-published magazines), then create some of their own. Each workshop started with a small introduction to the concept of zines which included their popularity within and their links to the history of the LGBTQ+ community. The sessions were led by local artist and zine publisher Victor Langdon-Lewis.

The workshops were aimed at adults and people in their late teens, and the groups that came enjoyed their sessions. They were interested to learn about zines and engage in a creative activity, with participants sharing that they were proud of what they had made and happy to have taken part. The workshops were accessible to and included disabled participants.

"It was fantastic having a chance to run these sessions and share the wonderful world of zines with a new audience. I was especially happy that we were able to connect with the local LGBTQ+ community and do something fun with such strong ties to previous generations of queer creatives." – Victor Langdon-Lewis

Held during Pride Month and Summer 2024, with contributions from Conwy Museum Service, Conwy Archives, and artist Victor Langdon-Lewis.
